Purpose

In connection with the Employee's employment with the Company, this Agreement sets out the Employee's obligations regarding the Company's proprietary information and the ownership of inventions and other work product created in connection with that employment.

Definition of Proprietary Information

"Proprietary Information" means non-public information belonging to the Company or disclosed to the Company by others, including business plans, financial information, customer and supplier data, product and technical designs, source code, algorithms, and other confidential business or technical information the Employee learns or has access to during employment.

Confidentiality Obligations

The Employee agrees to use Proprietary Information only to perform their duties for the Company, to hold it in confidence during and after employment, and not to disclose it to any third party without the Company's prior written consent, except as required by law.

The Employee agrees to promptly disclose to the Company, and hereby assigns to the Company, all right, title, and interest in any invention, discovery, design, work of authorship, or other work product that the Employee conceives, develops, or reduces to practice, alone or with others, during the period of employment, that (a) relates to the Company's actual or reasonably anticipated business, research, or development, or (b) is created using the Company's equipment, facilities, time, or Proprietary Information.

Upon request or at the end of employment, the Employee agrees to return or destroy all materials containing Proprietary Information, and all models, prototypes, and other embodiments of assigned inventions, in the Employee's possession.

Important Notice Regarding Applicable Law

This is a general-purpose template and is not a substitute for advice from a qualified attorney. The scope of inventions and intellectual property that an employer may lawfully require an employee to assign varies significantly by jurisdiction, and the laws of the state or country where the Employee works (for example, statutes limiting assignment of inventions developed entirely on an employee's own time, without use of the employer's resources, and unrelated to the employer's business) may narrow or otherwise affect the scope of assignment described above. The parties should confirm the enforceability of this Agreement in the relevant jurisdiction with qualified counsel before relying on it.

Governing Law

This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State/Country of _____, without regard to its conflict-of-law principles, subject to the notice above regarding jurisdiction-specific limits on invention assignment.

Dispute Resolution

The parties agree to first attempt to resolve any dispute arising from this Agreement through good-faith negotiation. If unresolved within 30 days, either party may pursue mediation or binding arbitration before resorting to litigation.
